Trainees Per Year: 2-3 (Total of 6 trainees)
Program Length: 2 Years for urology fellows and 3 Years for gynecology fellows

Special Interest Areas: Robust and balanced experience in all areas of Female Pelvic Medicine and Reconstructive Surgery. Experience in vaginal, abdominal, and minimally invasive techniques including robotics. Functional urology including urodynamics, neuromodulation and neurourology. Experience in complex pelvic reconstructive surgeries and urinary diversion.

Program Description: The UCLA fellowship in FPMRS is an ACGME approved program leading to board certifications from either the American Board of Urology (for urology fellows) or the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology (for gynecology fellows). Fellows and faculty from both urology and gynecology work together to provide the optimal learning experience for trainees. Surgical experience is notable for a large surgical volume at three sites.
